Excursion Train in Collision with a Freight on the Northwestern Road Through the Forgetfulness of the Lugineer-Locomotive Plows Its Way Into a Coach Filled with People and Makes Frightful Havos -List of the Dead and Wounded.

OMAHA, July 13 .- Omaha is a city of mourning with a full realization of the greatest catastrophe that ever wreaked death and desolation in the hearts and firesides of the city's people. No part of the city was spared. There are broken and bleeding hearts everywhere, and sorrew reigns supreme. The cause of this sorrow was a head-end collision between Logan and Missouri Valley on the northwestern road Saturday evening in which an excursion train collided with a fast freight

The roll of dead belonging in Omaha numbers eighteen names, the complete list being as follows: John McDermott, machinist at the Union Pacific shops; John Kinsey; Robert Clair, son of John Clair, ex-assistant boiler inspector; John H. Jack: John Larsen, aged about 16; Fred T. Neilsen; John B. Kilker; Owen Cavanaugh, 18 years; Hugh Dodson, 19 years; Mrs. Kate Bradley and baby; Mrs. P. J. Carroll, and boy of 6; Patrick Scully; Miss Mary Tracy; John Cosgrove, aged 19; William Cosgrove, aged 14; Margaret Cosgrove, aged 21.

In addition to these the following residents of other towns were killed, increasing the list to twenty-five, but there are still three or four not accounted for, two of the doctors who went to the scene from Omaha stating that they counted the dead bodies, one placing the number at twentyeight and the other at twenty-nine. The list so far as has been obtained is as follows: Charles Heiman and Walter Jennings, Missouri Valley; George Wininger, Morrison, Ill.; Lawrence Petero, Miss Ollie Wilson and Mrs. Taylor and baby, Council Bluffs.

The correct list of the more seriously injured is this-some will die, some will hold their beds for weeks and months, some are, in comparison, but slightly injured. The wounds range from surface cuts to interal injuries which must result in death: Robert Buchtel, leg fractured; Mrs. Robert Buchtel, severe contusions on face and forehead; Kate Cosgrove, contusion over the right eye and generally badly bruised; William J. Summit, of Missouri Valley, fracture of a leg and generally bruised; Mrs. Scully, of Sheeley, fractures of several ribs and injured in the chest, not expected to live; Sam Duston, arm broken and eve badly cut: Blanche H. Ender, Clifton Hill, seriously injured; J. F. Kaler, Council Bluffs, very badly cut about head and face; Margaret Colven, very badly bruised; Annie Colven, shoulders badly bruised and severely cut; Oliver Colven, number of severe cuts about head; John Schneidel, injured in side, arms and head; Eva Nellson, very badly injured internally, condition serious; Leonard Mack, injured in the abdomen and groin; Andrew Neilson, arm broken, both sides injured and cuts in face; Henry C. Conrad. of Dayton, In., injured about right hip: C. W. John son, contusions upon both legs; P. J. Carroll, injured in the chest and head; Jerome A. Little, ribs fractured and internal injuries, possibly fatal; John McKenna, injured internally, serious; 3-year-old child belonging to the Kaler family, of Council Bluffs, badly injured. All the people killed were in the front coach of the excursion. All the dead and injured were brought to Omaha yesterday.

FIVE CRUSHED TO DEATH.

Picuic Train Near Chicago Collides with Some Empty Coaches.

CHICAGO, July 13.-Five people were killed, three fatally injured and a score seriously hurt in a wreck on the Wisconsin Central road last night. The wrecked train was the first section of a picnte train which had been held at Schiller park, about twelve miles west of the city. The pienie was held under the auspices of the Ancient Order of United Workmen, and fully 3,000 people were in attendance. The first section consisted of thirteen cars, and left the park shortly after 8 o'clock for the return trip to the city. All the cars were densely crowded, and many people were standing on the platforms.

When the train reached Altenhein cemetery, ten miles from the city, it ran into a siding in front of the station. The picnic train was not running at over ten miles an hour, and when it neared Altenheim the switchman at the station opened the switch to transfer a freight train and did not close it in time to prevent the picnic train from dashing upon the siding, where a train of empty coaches was standing. The picnic train did not strike the train on the siding with great force, and in fact the engine of the picnic train was not damaged beyond a broken pilot.

The force of the collision was sufficient, however, to jam the first coach up against the baggage car in such a way as to partially telescope it. The people who were killed were standing on the platform of the first coach, and their lives were crushed out by the rear end of the baggage car. All the seriously injured were in the first car, and none of the passengers in the other cars were badly injured, although some of them were bruised by being thrown against the seats and to the floor.

The dead are: Charles Samuel, head crushed; Frederick Kertell, chest crushed; Frank Kock, neck broken; Mary Arnold, left leg and left arm torn off; Lena Hubert, head crushed. Severely injured: Patrick Collins, leg mashed; Edward Kelly, leg broken; Peter Connor, internally injured; Fred Gravell, internally injured. All the excursionists were Chicago

After investigation the police arrested the following on charge of criminal carelessness: James Gram, engineer of the excursion train; William Donal, fireman of the same engine; Mike O'Donnell, engineer of the switch engine drawing the freight train; James Mecham, fireman of the same engine; J. V. Kniskern, the operator who it is alleged was the cause of the fatality.

The chief blame for the accident is laid upon Kniskern, who, it is charged, carelessly walked away without throwing back the switch.

Major Moore's office in the District building is a curiosity shop. He has there a collection of articles used by the criminals who have been run down by the metropolitan police; but there is one particular article among them that is propably the center of interest. In app arance it researches an umbrella that has seen much service, or it might be taken for a stage umbrella, such as is used by Marks in "Uncle Tom's

This imitation umbrella was formerly the property of a burglar, and it was by its means that he was able to enter the second story of a building. Removing the cover, a stick wound with rope is revealed. The stick opens like a telescope or a jointed fish pole. Wound around it is a rope ladder, made of strong material and about 13 feet in length. The ladder is only wide enough for one foot to be placed on the rounds.

The extending stick was used to raise one end of the ladder to the window through which the operator wished to enter, and on one end of the ladder are two hooks to be fastened to the sill. The contrivance was taken from a colored burglar named James Mcore, who is now serving out a 20 years' sentence in the Albany penitentiary for housebreak-

Moore was first arrested about ten years ago. It was then that he made use of the ladder to gain admittance to the houses that tempted him. He was an old sailor, and while on board ship he learned the art of making and splicing rope. Entering the field of crime, he conceived the idea of the rope ladders. It is regarded as one of the most ingenious affairs ever made use of by a thief. He carried no other tools, as he was what is known in police circles as "summer thief," one who works when windows are left open. Moore operated alone, as he was afraid to trust s "pal."-Washington Post.

a Thumb. "I lost that thumb by knowing too much," said the old stockman, in answer to a query. "I was nothing but a tenderfoot, but I thought because I could rope a calf in a cerral that I could do anything any one else could.

"The first day that I went out with my rawhide riata on my saddle some of the men commenced trying to tell me how to rope a steer and how to take a turn around the horn of the saddle with the riata when I wanted to hold him, but I told them I guessed I knew how to do it, and I'm a thumb shy in conse-

"I chucked the rope on a steer as he was running and quickly wound the riata around the horn of the saddle. There was a jerk, the steer went down, and my thumb was crushed to a pulp. I had, in taking a turn with the riata around the horn, unwittingly got my thumb between the rope and the pom mel. When it tightened I lost my thumb,

"When a cowboy holds a loop in his right hand, ready to throw, his thumb is pointing from him. After the throw it is natural for him to let the riata slide through his hand from his little finger toward his thumb, but if he attempts to wind it around the saddle horn in that way it is 10 to 1 that he will get his thumb tangled up as I did. After the throw he has to let go of the riata entirely, seize it again, and as he winds it around the saddle horn let it slip through his hand from his thumb toward his little finger. Just recollect that and it may save you a thumb."-San Francis Post.

Quixotry.

Quixote is at least interesting, and even amusing. More than this, he is of practical service. His during unreasonableness stirs up stagnating waters and relieves the gray monotony of common sense. Perhaps we regard him with the pity that is akin to contempt, and call him fanatic, enthusiast; but so have we called the prophets that were before him. Enthusiasm now is rather out of fashion, like duels and hard drinking; and to call a man enthusiastic is almost as great an insult as to call him genteel. And so we look askance at Quixotry, because it is not the "mode." But perhaps we rather ought to weep that it is so much a thing of the past, and cherish those few instances of it that remain; not only because of its artistic value, but because where the more sober thinker fails, the Quixote is often of service. Like an inferior soprano, he will be heard by his much screaming, and nothing is ever done without a scream. We have Mr. Bumble's statement that the public is "a hass," and it is only too apt to stand between its proverbial two bundles of hay and taste neither. It takes a good deal to wake it from that deep, sweet slumber in which it habitually lies, dreaming that it is doing something, fighting old battles over again, instead of bestirring itself about new ones. Most progress, and especially political progress, is a series of compromises. No party gets as much as it wants, but each is a drag upon the other. -London Spectator.

Reform Spelling.

Whitelaw Reid in a letter to a "reform spelling" advocate sensibly says of the duty of the state board of regents: We at least should avoid the barbarous business of vivisection on our noble living English. Such changes as are needful should, so far as we are concerned, come, as in nature, slowly, and not artificially, but in the order of growth."

Politness is a kind of anæsthetic which envelops the asperities of our character, so that other people be not wounded by them. We should never be without it, even when we contend with the rude. -Joubert.

Text of the Lesson, II Sam. vi, 1-12 -Memory Verses, 11, 13 - Golden Text, Ps. laxxiv, 12 -Commentary by the Rev. D. M.

1. "Again David gathered together all the chosen men of Israel, 30,000." In I Chron, xiii, 5, it is written that he gathgred all Israel from Egypt to Hemath, and it is also written in verse 1 of that chapter that he did this after consulting with his captains and leaders. His habit was to inquire of the Lord (II Sam. v. 19, 23), Sold by all druggists, 75c. but this looks like reliance upon the wisdom of man rather than upon God. See Ps. xxxvii, 5; Prov. iii, 5, 6, for the right way in every matter.

"To bring up from thence the ark of God, whose name is called by the name of the Lord of Hosts that dwelleth between the cherubim." Baale of Judah is Kirjathjearim (see margin), where the ark had been in the house of Abinadab in the hill since the Philistines had sent it home in the new cart (I Sam. vii, 1); probably over 50 years, for it was there long before Saul was anointed king, and he reigned 40 years (Acts xiii, 21). The ark was the special symbol of the presence of God, and when it was first made He told Moses that He would commune with him from above the mercy seat, from between the two cherubim (Ex. xxv, 22). So that it was the place of meeting and of communion between God and man. It was a wondrous type of Christ as the end of the law for righteousness, and as the atonement for our sins.

3. "And they set the ark of God upon a new cart." It was well enough for the Philistines to do this, for they had no instructions from God as to His pleasure, but Israel had commands from God that the ark should be borne upon the shoulders of the Levites set apart for that purpose (Num. iv, 24, 25; vii, 9). David also knew this well (I Chron. xv, 2), but, leaning upon human wisdom, he was for the time turned from the wisdom of God. We must lean wholly upon God in all things. 4, 5. "And David and all the house of Israel played before the Lord." It was a joyful procession, and it was seemingly to the glory of God, for were they not praising Him and bearing His ark triumphantly to a place prepared for it in the Holy City? It was a grand display in a good cause, but it was not according to God's command, and however well a thing may look, and though it may seem to be for God's honor, yet if contrary to God's way it is simply disobedience, and His word concerning it is, "Who hath required this at your hand?" (Isa. 1, 12.) As one has said. "The work of the Lord must be done in God's way, else it cannot be for His

"Uzzah put forth his hand to the ark of God and took hold of it, for the oxen shook it." The margin says that they stumbled. This was the beginning of the trouble that day, or rather the beginning of God's manifest disapproval of this way of doing things, for the trouble began with David's not inquiring of the Lord. Then came the new cart instead of the shoulders of the Levites. This new cart of David is very suggestive of all the worldly ways adopted by the people of God today to carry on what they call the Lord's work. When Israel adopts Philistine methods rather than God's ways, trouble is sure to follow, so when the church tries to follow church, instead of giving herself to exalt the Lord Jesus Christ and honor His word, He will in due time manifestly disown the whole thing. For every Saul that the people of God honor in their attempts to be like the world the world will produce a Goliath and thus keep ahead till some David comes in the name of the Lord and overcomes the defiers of God.

7. "And the anger of the Lord was kindled against Uzzah, and God smote him there for his error, and there he died by the ark of God." One would think that if there was a place of safety on the face of the earth it would be by the ark of God, and yet there Uzzah died. There is no life but in the way of God's commandments. 8, 9, "And David was displeased," "And David was afraid." Displeased with the Lord and afraid of the Lord. How unlike

David! How unlike the man who, in the name of the Lord, had slain Goliath! How great the contrast between one walking humbly with God and one with some person or plan between them and God! David's great thought that day was to get the ark of the Lord to himself at Jerusalem, as appears from this ninth verse. His thought was not so much God's glory and God's way as David's glory and David's way. Thus the intimacy between them was for the time broken, and David lost fellowship with God. 10. "So David would not remove the ark of the Lord unto him into the city of David." It was neither the first nor the last occasion of sore hearts and misunderstandings, not easily healed, because of attempts by the people of God to adopt worldly ways. I know of one church in which their last fair or festival was held about 14 years ago, and in that church there are to this day breaches unhealed because of jealousies or misunderstandings at that time. I do with my whole heart believe that festivals and suppers, amateur theatricals, special music by unsaved people-in fact, the whole entertainment business-in the house of God must go along with such teaching as the fallibility of Scripture, the larger hope, no hell, Jesus Christ our example only and not our substitute, as being samples of the work of the wicked one and not of the spirit of God. 11. "And the Lord blessed Obed-edom and all his household." This is the record concerning the home where the ark rested for three months. When the Lord Jesus is honestly and simply received into the heart, such a one becomes a child of God (John i, 12) and is blessed with all spiritual blessings in Christ (Eph. i, 3), made a partaker of the Divine nature, and also of the glory to be revealed (I Pet. v, 1; II Pet. i, 4). Apart from God there is no blessing, but "Blessed is the man that trusteth in Him." 12, "David went and brought up the ark of God from the house of Obed-edom into the city of David with gladness." The children of the Levites bare the ark of God upon their shoulders, with the staves thereon, as Moses commanded, according to the word of the Lord. This was "after the due order" (I Chron. xv, 13, 15), but the former proceeding, which caused the trouble, had no authority in the commands of God, though it may have been seemingly more expedient than sanctifying the Levites to their work. We now read of burnt offerings and peace offerings unto the Lord and of the blessing of the Lord upon the people. All is well when we are in
